

*smarter resources.
more human.*

Way back in the day of skirted Celtic warriors... villagers would burn the homes of those they no longer wanted in their community. This original “getting fired” meant homelessness and almost certain death for the outbound, and while much has changed over the years, “firing” is still a hard message to deliver and even harder to receive.

→ MORE COACHING

We provide more private coaching hours per dollar spent than anyone else in the industry. Period. Why? Our research shows that active coaching has the biggest impact on job search success.

→ MORE TOUCH

We're high touch from the get-go, contacting them the very day you let them go. This high touch service continues with both private coaching and weekly strategic small groups. Our HR partners appreciate the peace of mind that comes that knowing that they are doing the best thing possible for the individuals.

→ MORE TIME

Every package includes one full year of service for every single person, which is incredibly comforting to your outbound employees. In fact, it can actually help them get back to work faster by giving them the freedom to accept a temp-to-perm position without the fear of losing their coach. And if they find they want to switch careers, as many individuals do, they have the time and resources to do it successfully.

GetFive has found a way to soften the blow when you have to let people go. In a highly personalized manner, we teach your outbound employees how to successfully re-enter today's job market. And we keep you updated on every step of their progress so you know just how well your money has been spent.

Are our coaches really that incredible? We sure think so. We don't just hire successful coaches — we train every single one of them in our proprietary method that's been 30 years in the making. They know our materials inside and out, from our fifth edition core books to the latest trends and technology. As a result, our coaches know how to lead people to continued career success.

We believe in high touch without the high cost. We don't use a DIY-based approach. Instead, we engage in a highly personal manner using our time-tested, research-based method. That's why our results are dramatically better than the competition's. More than 500 organizations know that our secret sauce actually works — careers are moving onward and upward in record time.

We'd love the opportunity to add you to that list.

Darren S. Kimball, CEO

