

Outplacement Solutions For the Modern (and Not So Modern) Job Seeker

Effective job search doesn't happen with an outdated model. Your outbound employees deserve the time and attention that only personalized coaching and modern training can bring.

The old approach sells real estate:

At many legacy models, skyrocketing real estate costs are driving shorter outplacement packages and squeezing out dedicated coaching, which can leave your outbound employees feeling discouraged and stuck. Your employment brand can't afford that reputation, especially when there's a proven, cost-effective method available.

Our modern approach provides real coaching:

Without legacy real estate costs, we're able to provide more of what really matters. Your outbound people have a personal guide dedicated to their individual job search and career, and a partnership to help them until they land the right job. We'll teach them to use today's tools, and lead them through our online digital resources.

It's not about real estate, it's about real coaching.